A place for creating wonderful memories

JOHN SLATTERY Club & Membership Committee Chairman

Our Members have many interesting stories to tell, and we are grateful to new Member Catherine Beaumont for sharing her story of why Mother's Day will be particularly poignant for her and her sister this year (page 8-9). In this edition of Highlights we also reveal some of the new cocktails on the Wine Bar menu at City Club, and find out what's motivating Members to buy the whisky and spirit lockers. For those looking for a way to increase their mobility, the Fitness Centre's Strength Training for Arthritis may be the answer (page 12). Or perhaps the Club's marvellous Mentoring Program may be of interest (page 14)? We are giving Members the chance to make plans for Christmas with a venue and booking guide (page 6). But why wait until Christmas to enjoy fine food? Find out what makes CAPE at our Cape Schanck Resort such a magical experience on page 16.

ROB EVERETT RACV Club General Manager

Welcome to the May edition of RACV Club Highlights magazine. Melbourne truly is back. How wonderful it was to see our city return to its glory, and City Club back to full accommodation capacity, over the four days of the Australian Grand Prix last month.

Although the Grand Prix, and Easter, have come and gone, Mother's Day is a treasured day on the social calendar for many Members and the cause of much celebration at the Club. Indeed, through the incredible Club team, both properties eagerly await the opportunity to make your Mother's Day that extra bit special. For those celebrating with loved ones away from the Club, Le Petit Gâteau patisserie's traditional Mother's Day cake is available to purchase and is sure to bring some sweet decadence to your mother's afternoon tea – it really is melt-in-your-mouth delicious.

In further good news, a major milestone will be achieved this month: City Club is delighted to re-open its doors and welcome Members through its renovated Bourke St entrance. I am sure you will agree the updated ground floor respects the history and traditions of the club, while elevating the experience for Members through contemporary architecture and design. A big thank you to all Members for your patience and understanding during these works. I encourage you all to come and see the new entrance and pick up your complimentary gift card from the front desk (if you haven't already) as a token of our appreciation. I look forward to seeing you at the Club soon.

DRIVING FORCE

The Club's newest Member Interest Group will surprise you with new perspectives on a broad range of topics relating to motoring

Club Member Graeme Sedgwick is channelling his enthusiasm for "just about anything and everything that connects to mobility" into a new member interest group at the Club.

"Whether it's a performance machine or an adventure motorcycle, an off-road camper trailer, SUV, caravan, daily drive or those two- or four-wheel creations that have become classic, I'm interested," Graeme says.

After recently discovering that motorcycles, as well as cars, were integral in the creation of the RACV in 1903, he thought a Motoring Interest Group covering all aspects of mobility, not just heritage cars, would be a valuable addition to the RACV Club.

"It's about getting engaging speakers, who are directly or indirectly involved in motoring and mobility, for a question-and-answer session that opens people's eyes to content they wouldn't have considered," he says.

The Motoring Interest Group is off to a flying start, with such guests as Targa Australia CEO Mark Perry, who offered insight into why Targa Tasmania has become one of the world's most prestigious Tarmac Rallies.

In June, Graeme's guest will be former CEO and Executive Director of New Age Caravans Gabby Montagnese, also a finalist in Telstra's Victorian Business Women's Awards prior to New Age's acquisition the Walkinshaw Automotive Group (WAG).

"Gabby has broken the mould from a woman's point of view in the motoring industry," Graeme says. "She'll be talking about her achievements and her interest in philanthropy, as well as other themes. In short, it will be an interesting Q&A for all Members, and friends that they might like to invite along."

GRAEME SEDGWICK
WORDS AND IMAGE:
BLANCHE CLARK

Graeme's career in retail marketing communications and international education design and delivery has taken him many places, while from a motoring perspective he's been to Italy's "most romanced sports car event", the Mille Miglia, ridden a motorcycle throughout Rajasthan, and penned African Safari about East Africa's oldest motor rally, a copy of which is in the City Club Library.

He hopes other Members will get involved with the group. "I think this dimension of the Club is screaming to be awakened, and given an injection of energy," he says. "I have enthusiasm, but if there's a better person for it, then I'm happy to hand on the baton."

We have exciting interest groups and events planned for May and June, including the Motoring Interest Group Q&A session, special dinners and entertainment.

There's a guest speaker and the banquet attracts people from all walks of life, so conversation is always lively.

Christmas is a wonderful time of year for Members at the Club - and there's no time like the present to start planning your festive bookings

Planning is the key to any great event, and Christmas is no exception. That's why our bookings for Christmas Day dining at the Club will be open in mid-June on different dates. You have the choice of four venues for lunch, and Bistro at City Club will also be open for dinner.

Club Events Manager Melissa McCallum says the buffet lunch at Healesville is perfect for families. "The kids can run around on the lawn, and there will be plenty to eat and drink, whether you're a seafood lover or dealing with a fussy eater."

Level 17 is the choice for extended families, with tables commonly seating six to 12 people, if not 20. "On the perfect Melbourne day, you can go out onto the balcony, and overlook the city. It's pretty special," Melissa says.

The Members Dining Room offers a refined experience, while the Bistro is more casual. There will be a festive feel in every venue, with a Christmas tree, bonbons, carol singers and a visit from Santa.

"Come in, be served, eat and drink, and enjoy the festive spirit in the company of your fellow Club Members," Melissa says.

MAKING MEMORIES

Club Member Catherine Beaumont recalls her fondest memories associated with Mother's Day

Winning a prize at a recent New Members Evening was particularly poignant for Catherine Beaumont and her sister Jessica. The sisters had become Club Members this year as a way of carrying on a family tradition and honouring their parents, Bill and Janet Wright.

"The event was held in the City Club Library and there was a real buzz around the room," Catherine says. "There were door prizes and to my great surprise my name was drawn for a weekend away at Healesville Country Club & Resort. My jaw dropped, and my sister and I turned to each other and gave each other a big hug."

Memories came flooding back about Mother's Day last year, when the sisters marked the occasion with an overnight stay at Healesville with their 83-year-old mother.

"We had a beautiful time, just the three of us, away from our families and other obligations. We walked around the property, had dinner in the restaurant, and a lovely breakfast the next day. We didn't know it then, but it was to be our last outing together. Sadly, Mum passed away six days later."

Catherine says this memory made winning the Healesville accommodation package extra special. "Both Jessica and I had this sensation that it was a sign, that somehow Mum was looking out for us," she says. "It meant so much to us."

She says the Club became a place of celebration for three generations after her father Bill joined in 2002. "We celebrated Dad's 80th birthday in the Members Dining Room, and my children made a cake covered in Smarties and cricket-player figurines, because my father used to play cricket. The candles spelt out the words '80 not out'. It was priceless."

Catherine remembers her mother as a homemaker who was always there for her family, and as someone who loved people, travel and food. Janet celebrated her own 80th birthday in Penang with her daughters.

"Mum lived in our family home until she passed away, and we're so grateful for the time we had with her," she says. "I like the idea of Jessica and me, with our children – and who knows maybe one day with our grandchildren – being able to continue making memories at the Club."

INNER SANCTUM

Whisky lockers, wine flights, new cocktails - you're invited to one of the most surprising places in town

The Wine Bar at City Club is the perfect intersection of sophistication and tradition. With design elements inspired by the Prohibition era, comfortable lounge chairs and laid-back music, it's easy to while away a few hours here.

You never know what you might discover - like the whisky and spirit lockers that create a stylish backdrop to the tasting table, where Wine Bar Wednesdays are held twice a month.

Bar Team Leader Freya Rock says Members are buying the lockers as a novel way of connecting with business partners, work colleagues, family and friends.

"For most Members it's a bit of fun," she says. "In one case, three members of the same family have each bought lockers, and they have access to each other's lockers so they can try different things."

"There's also a locker with Laphroaig, Penfolds port, and Crème de Menthe for grasshopper cocktails."

Freya says Club Members can order any spirit or whisky that's readily available to keep in their locker, and they get an engraved tag with their name and locker number.

"If you have a spirit in your locker, you also get free mixers and cocktails when you come in," she says.

CAROUSEL OF COCKTAILS

Another way the Wine Bar staff like to surprise you is with exotic cocktails, and the latest ones that you can try incorporate a theatrical element.

"The affogato is served with a mini ice cream; the margarita has lime sherbet bubbles, and the old-fashioned is served in a cigar box that releases a hint of smoke when you open it," Freya says. "We have another one that is served in a growler, which keeps the cocktail cool and refreshing."

WORDS: BLANCHE CLARK
IMAGES: MATT HARVEY

The Wine Bar's food menu also incites curiosity, with a "Mystery box" alongside enticements such as lobster roll and twice-cooked pork belly with toasted barley and grilled pineapple.

"This is a place where you can stay a few hours, whether it's long lunch followed by a coffee and a whisky, or relaxing with a glass of wine," Freya says.

"We serve food from lunch until dinner, so you can come in the afternoon for a wine and cheese platter."

Freya says Wine Bar Wednesdays give Members an introduction to new products and local producers, and past events have focused on tequila, whisky, gin and cocktails.

"We can suggest new wines and spirits for Members to try, and the wine and whisky flights offer an interesting experience. The Wine Bar is really a place to relax."

The Wine Bar at City Club is full of surprises, from its dynamic menu to Wine Bar Wednesdays and Whisky lockers. Drop by to find out more.

GET STRONG, LIVE BETTER

Strength training specifically for arthritis can help you reclaim your fitness and mobility – and live a healthier life.

WORDS: ALICE PIPER
IMAGE: LUCAS ALLEN

Many of us feel aches and pains from time to time. Whether we've been gardening for a few hours, playing a round of golf, or lifting grandchildren up and down, daily activities can take a toll on our bodies, especially with our lifestyles changing in the wake of the pandemic.

With 3.6 million Australians, or one in six people, suffering from arthritis, a sore body is something many of us cannot ignore.

That's why RACV Club Personal Trainer Amy O'Sullivan is passionate about her fitness class called Strength Training for Arthritis, saying it's the life people regain after coming to the classes that she loves to see.

"I've been running a strength training class for more than seven years at RACV Club, both for people with arthritis and those simply wanting to increase their strength before it gets to that stage," Amy says.

"The improvement I've seen in Member fitness, both physical and mental, is so drastic. Watching Members being able to walk freely up and down stairs, easily get on and off chairs, and perform so many other daily movements with ease, makes it all worthwhile."

Incorporating slow movements on controlled weight machines, such as the leg press seated row, the class focuses on balance, strength, and mobility.

Amy gives each participant the attention and guidance to get the most out of the class, and their body.

"I've seen every single Member increase their strength, and cardio fitness, as well as increase and maintain their bone density and muscle mass, and better manage many other conditions," Amy says.

It is recommended that Members attend two gym classes per week for the best results. This could be a strength training session, plus a circuit session, which is run by Club personal trainer Fran Furci.

So, whether you have arthritis, a specific condition you're looking to manage, pain in a specific area of the body, or want to increase your strength in a social and welcoming environment, Strength Training for Arthritis is available to all Members.

CAREER BOOST

The Mentoring Program has given these two Members the chance to share and grow

The RACV Club Mentoring Program proved it's worth through Victoria's lockdown, helping dedicated Members such as mentor Russell Hocking and mentee Carla Santalucia.

Carla Santalucia

With 35 years of experience in urban planning, Russell had plenty of life experience and professional insights to share with Carla, a young practicing solicitor in family law.

Russell Hocking

How did you get on together?

RUSSELL: COVID allowed a 'no rules' type approach to establishing and progressing the professional relationship. We were both rookies to the mentor/mentee arrangement, and while that, in hindsight, potentially could have been a disaster, we both approached the process with an open mind and with no preconceptions. Carla and I worked on a couple of specific projects for her in her workplace, and we chatted through issues and situations and scenarios on an informal and conversational basis. I think that worked for us. It turned out both Carla and I thankfully had a similar attitude and approach.

CARLA: We got along like a house on fire! I was not disappointed with my choice of mentor at all. I didn't know what to expect; I've never really done mentoring of this type before. But we worked out early on that there were a few goals that I wanted to achieve in the 3-4 months that we were working together. Russell checked in on me regularly, making sure that I was working towards those goals, and kept me accountable in that way.

Did the lockdowns pose a challenge for this program?

RUSSELL: We entered Lockdown 5.0 for 14 weeks during the 2021 Mentoring Program. In fact, the night that we had intended to first meet for a drink, in the Wine Bar at the Club, became Day 1 of the lockdown. It was a miracle that the Club was able to get last year's program up and running through what ultimately was the last significant COVID lockdown in Victoria, after a long 18 months of lockdowns. Zoom became our friend, and because we are both proud products of the western suburbs – proud Westies – we took the opportunity to catch up for a coffee and a walk around the Maribyrnong as a part of our one hour-a-day exercise.

CARLA: We were lucky enough to live close to each other at the time, so we were able to catch up locally as well as over Zoom. I think we managed quite well in the circumstances. We dealt with each other in vulnerable states throughout the program, because with lockdown everyone was having up and down days. He saw me on down days, and I saw him on down days, so we were able to work through that as well.

Do you have any advice for Club Members considering joining the Mentoring Program?

RUSSELL: The significance of the program being mentee driven is important to understand, as is the importance of maintaining consistent and regular contact, being a good listener, being attentive and simply trusting your own professional and life experience as the important contribution for someone just starting out. You do not need formal mentoring experience; you just need to approach the program with an open mind, with a natural curiosity and with a disposition to help, to listen and learn. Carla and I both reflected that at the end of the program we had both learnt a lot and that was very gratifying.

CARLA: I'm probably still a little bit young to be a mentor myself, and I have a lot to learn before I can impart wisdom on somebody else at this point in my career, but down the track I'd absolutely be interested in becoming a mentor through the Club.

FEEL THE MAGIC

Discover why CAPE restaurant is the hottest venue on the Mornington Peninsula

Imagine this: to one side the sun is setting over the native habitat of Cape Schanck, to the other there's a sprawling golf course as far as the eye can see, and all the while you're sipping on some of the Mornington Peninsula's best wines and tasting food served up by the region's stellar new chef.

RACV Cape Schanck Resort's CAPE restaurant is truly unique, with modern dishes grounded in simplicity. Head Chef Jordan Clavaron (pictured left) has worked hard to create a menu experience that pays homage to European traditions, while still focusing on the best local produce Victoria has to offer.

"One of the most important things is the story and history behind a dish," Jordan says. "This is why I love talking to people and connecting with guests who come to our restaurant – I love creating theatre for them."

A previous menu highlight dish at CAPE is the Ratatouille, Clavaron's take on a classic French vegetable stew. When the waiter serves the dish at your table, liquid nitrogen is added and there's the mystery of smoke and an icy breeze. The result is the classic flavours of a Ratatouille with an unexpected cool twist.

"This is what I love about food," says Clavaron. "Making magic for people."

Although Clavaron takes inspiration from his French roots, it's the incorporation of both national and local Victorian produce at CAPE Restaurant that he loves most.

"Locality is very important to me," he says. "I want to show people the amazing food we have here on the Mornington Peninsula, as well as Australia, and the things that can be done with it."

Growing up with a Michelin star chef as a father, Clavaron was immersed in food from a young age, and he knew he'd live a life in the kitchen.

After working in Paris and London as a young chef, he migrated to Australia in 2018, before briefly returning to London, and then settling on the Mornington Peninsula a short time later.

"I come from a food background working at some of the top restaurants in France and London, so coming to the Mornington Peninsula, I really want to show how we treat food back in Europe," Clavaron says. "This isn't just a job for me, this is my passion. Constantly evolving and improving our menu is what keeps me excited about."

Previous dish highlights such as Spanner Crab and Caviar, Squab with Jerusalem Artichokes and Fennel, as well as Crown Roasted Victorian Duck, show off Clavaron's dedication to creating the perfect dining experience.

If you're looking to add even more local flair to your multi-course set menu, local wines can be matched to each course.

The 2016 Circe 'Hillcrest Road' Pinot Noir from Red Hill is one of the highlights of the extensive wine menu.
